

Which company offers the best fiber optic cabling in Madagascar

Article Overview

Telma is widely regarded as the leading fiber optic provider in Madagascar, offering the most reliable network, extensive coverage, and competitive pricing.

Telma (Telecom Malagasy)

Telma is the largest internet provider in Madagascar and controls a significant portion of the country's ICT infrastructure, including fiber optic cables and mobile data towers . The company has partnered with Vodafone to connect Madagascar to the 2Africa East subsea cable, enhancing international connectivity, reducing latency, and improving reliability for high-speed internet services . Telma offers fiber optic plans with speeds up to 200 Mbps, covering approximately 85% of the population, and recently launched a low-cost plan at 49,000 ariary (~$10.67) per month for 100 GB at 200 Mbps, promoting digital inclusion . This makes Telma ideal for both urban and semi-urban users seeking stable, high-speed internet.

Orange Madagascar

Orange is the second-largest telecommunications company in Madagascar and provides reliable fiber optic services alongside 4G and 5G mobile connectivity . Fiber plans from Orange offer speeds up to 150 Mbps with coverage around 80% of the population, particularly strong in coastal cities like Toamasina and Mahajanga . Orange is a good alternative for users seeking a reputable multinational provider with consistent service quality....
